Credit scores

FICO® Score 8

Your score is well below the average score of U.S. consumers and demonstrates to lenders that you are a risky borrower.

What's helping

✓ Substantial installment loan repayment

- Your balances on mortgage and/or non-mortgage installment loans are relatively low or substantially paid off.
- Percentage of principal you have paid down on your open non-mortgage installment loans: 22%
- FICO High Achievers have paid down an average of 42% of the principal on their non-mortgage installment loans.
- FICO® Scores evaluate amounts paid down and total outstanding installment loan balances in relation to the original loan amounts on those accounts. Having made substantial payments on mortgage and/or non-mortgage installment loans is seen as lower risk. As installment loan balances decrease, they have less impact on a FICO® Score. Note, having a low installment loan balance to loan amount ratio is considered slightly less risky than having a 0% installment loan ratio. Consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not help a FICO® Score since the same total amount is owed and the score may go down due to opening a new account.

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.
- Number of your accounts that were ever 60 days late or worse or have a derogatory indicator: 4 accounts
- Virtually no FICO High Achievers have a 60 days late payment or worse listed on their credit report.
- Number of collections on your credit report: 3 collections
- Virtually no FICO High Achievers have a public record or collection listed on their credit report.
- The presence of a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator and a derogatory public record (such as a bankruptcy) or collection is a powerful predictor of future payment risk. However, newer versions of the score including FICO® Score 9, FICO® Score 10, and FICO® Score 10 T only consider unpaid collections. Most collections, public records and delinquencies stay on the report for no more than seven years - though there are certain items that could remain longer. As these items age, they may have less impact on the FICO® Score. Satisfying the public record or paying off the collection will not remove the item from a credit report. And it will still be considered by a FICO® Score as long as it is reported.

— High credit usage

- You've made heavy use of your available revolving credit.
- Ratio of your revolving balances to your credit limits: 84%
- For FICO High Achievers, the average ratio of the revolving account balances to credit limits is 6%.

- The FICO® Score evaluates balances in relation to available credit on revolving accounts. The extent of a person's credit usage is one of the most important factors considered by a FICO® Score. People who keep their ratio of balances to credit limits lower are generally considered less risky to lenders than those with higher ratios. Note, consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not change the total amount owed.

— Short account history

- You have a short credit history.
- Your oldest account was opened: 20 Years, 9 Months ago
- FICO High Achievers opened their oldest account 26 years ago, on average.
- Average age of your accounts: 7 Years, 9 Months
- Most FICO High Achievers have an average age of accounts of 10 years or more.
- People with longer credit histories who infrequently open new accounts generally pose less risk to lenders. In your case, the age of your oldest account and/or the average age of your accounts is relatively low.

— Few accounts paid on time

- You have an insufficient number of accounts that are currently paid as agreed.
- Number of your accounts currently being paid as agreed: 6 accounts
- FICO High Achievers have an average of 6 accounts currently being paid as agreed.
- The FICO® Score considers the number of accounts showing on time payments. Generally, the higher the number reported the lower the risk. Compared to other people with a similar age of credit history, the number of accounts you have that are currently paid as agreed is low.

FICO® Bankcard Score 2

This is a previous FICO® Score version that is customized for credit card lending. Many credit card issuers use this version when pulling your credit report based on Experian data.

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.
- The presence of a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator and a derogatory public record (such as a bankruptcy) or collection is a powerful predictor of future payment risk. However, newer versions of the score including FICO® Score 9, FICO® Score 10, and FICO® Score 10 T only consider unpaid collections. Most collections, public records and delinquencies stay on the report for no more than seven years - though there are certain items that could remain longer. Note, consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not change the total amount owed.

— Bad payment history

- You have one or more accounts showing missed payments or derogatory indicators.
- The presence of missed and late payments or derogatory indicators on a credit report, including the number of late payments, how late they were and how recently they occurred, are correlated with future credit risk. Your FICO® Score was lowered due to the number of missed and late payments and/or accounts with derogatory indicators reported. As the number of accounts with delinquency or derogatory indicators decreases, they have less impact on a FICO® Score.

— Many new accounts

- You've recently opened too many new credit accounts.
- The FICO® Score considers the number of recent credit account openings. Opening several credit accounts in a short time period is reflective of greater risk - especially for people with shorter credit histories.

FICO® Bankcard Score 8

This is a FICO® Score version that is customized for credit card lending. Many credit card issuers use this version when pulling your credit report based on Experian data.

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.

- People with longer credit histories who infrequently open new accounts generally pose less risk to lenders. In your case, the age of your oldest account and/or the average age of your accounts is relatively low.

— High account balances

- The balances on your non-mortgage credit accounts are too high.
- The FICO® Score considers how much is owed on credit accounts, such as credit cards and non-mortgage loans. Generally, people who owe higher amounts pose a greater risk to lenders.

FICO® Score 3

This is a previous FICO® Score version used primarily in credit card lending. It may also be used by some lenders for other credit product application evaluations (such as credit cards, personal loans, retail credit, student loans, etc.).

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.
- The presence of a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator and a derogatory public record (such as a bankruptcy) or collection is a powerful predictor of future payment risk. People who keep their ratio of balances to credit limits lower are generally considered less risky to lenders than those with higher ratios. Note, consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not change the total amount owed.

— Amount past due

- You have past due amounts on your accounts.
- The FICO® Score considers the amounts past due on your accounts and your FICO® Score was lowered due to the amounts past due reported. Generally, the greater the amount that is past due, the greater the risk to lenders.

— Recent collection and/or PR

- You have a recent public record and/or collection on your credit report.
- The recency of a derogatory public record (such as a bankruptcy) or collection is a powerful predictor of future payment risk. However, newer versions of the score including FICO® Score 9, FICO® Score 10, and FICO® Score 10 T only consider unpaid collections. Note, satisfying the public record or paying off the collection will not remove the item and it will still be considered by a FICO® Score as long as it is reported. As these items age, they may have less impact on a FICO® Score. Most public records and collections stay on your report for no more than seven years - though there are certain items that could remain longer.

FICO® Auto Score 2

This is a previous FICO® Score version customized for auto lending. Many banks, auto dealers and other lenders use this version when pulling your credit report based on Experian data.

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.
- The presence of a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator and a derogatory public record (such as a bankruptcy) or collection is a powerful predictor of future payment risk. However, newer versions of the score including FICO® Score 9, FICO® Score 10, and FICO® Score 10 T only consider unpaid collections. Most collections, public records and delinquencies stay on the report for no more than seven years - though there are certain items that could remain longer. People who keep their ratio of balances to credit limits lower are generally considered less risky to lenders than those with higher ratios. Note, consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not change the total amount owed.

— Lack of auto loan activity

- You have a lack of recent activity from an auto loan.
- Your credit report shows no open auto loans or a lack of recent information about any of your auto loans. The FICO® Score evaluates the mix of credit cards, loans and mortgages. People who demonstrate responsible use of different types of credit are generally less risky to lenders.

— Bad payment history

- You have one or more accounts showing missed payments or derogatory indicators.
- The presence of missed and late payments or derogatory indicators on a credit report, including the number of late payments, how late they were and how recently they occurred, are correlated with future credit risk. Your FICO® Score was lowered due to the number of missed and late payments and/or accounts with derogatory indicators reported. As the number of accounts with delinquency or derogatory indicators decreases, they have less impact on a FICO® Score.

FICO® Auto Score 8

This is a FICO® Score version customized for auto lending. Many banks, auto dealers and other lenders use this version when pulling your credit report based on Experian data.

What's hurting

— Negative items

- You have a serious delinquency or derogatory indicator, public record and/or collection on your credit report.

People who keep their ratio of balances to credit limits lower are generally considered less risky to lenders than those with higher ratios. Note, consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not change the total amount owed.

— Loan balances

- The remaining balance on your mortgage or non-mortgage installment loans is relatively high.
- FICO® Scores weigh the amounts paid down and balances of mortgage and non-mortgage installment loans (such as auto or student loans) against the original loan amounts. In general, when an installment loan is first obtained the balance is high. As the loan is paid down, the balance decreases. As installment loan balances decrease, they have less impact on a FICO® Score. Having a low installment loan balance to loan amount ratio is considered slightly less risky than having a 0% installment loan ratio. Consolidating or moving debt from one account to another will usually not help a FICO® Score since the same total amount is owed and the score may go down due to opening a new account.

— Short account history

- You have a short credit history.
- People with longer credit histories who infrequently open new accounts generally pose less risk to lenders. In your case, the age of your oldest account and/or the average age of your accounts is relatively low.

Disclaimer

About your FICO® Score 8 or other FICO® Scores

Your FICO® Score 8 powered by Experian data is formulated using the information in your credit file at the time it is requested. Many but not all lenders use FICO® Score 8. In addition to the FICO® Score 8, we may offer and provide other base or industry-specific FICO® Scores (such as FICO® Auto Scores and FICO® Bankcard Scores). The other FICO® Scores made available are calculated from versions of the base and industry-specific FICO® Score models.

Base FICO® Scores (including the FICO® Score 8) range from 300 to 850. Industry-specific FICO® Scores range from 250-900. Higher scores represent a greater likelihood that you'll pay back your debts so you are viewed as being a lower credit risk to lenders. A lower FICO® Score indicates to lenders that you may be a higher credit risk. There are many scoring models used in the marketplace. The type of score used, and its associated risk levels, may vary from lender to lender. But regardless of what scoring model is used, they all have one purpose: to summarize your creditworthiness. Keep in mind that your score is just one factor used in the application process. Other factors, such as your annual salary and length of employment, may also be considered by lenders when you apply for a loan.

What this means to you:

Credit scoring can help you understand your overall credit rating and help companies better understand how to serve you. Overall benefits of credit scoring have included faster credit approvals, reduction in human error and bias, consistency, and better terms and rates for American consumers through reduced costs and losses for lenders. Your lender or insurer may use a different FICO® Score than FICO® Score 8 or other base or industry-specific FICO® Scores provided by us, or different scoring models to determine how you score.
